again appointed on 12 November 1584, on the promotion of the Earl of Arran, but was superseded by Lord Boyd on 21 June 1586.¹ He succeeded his father in 1584, was admitted a Burgess of Dundee 13 January 1589, and died before 10 March 1608.² He married (contract dated 14 January 1556-57³) Barbara, fourth daughter of William, Lord Ruthven, who as sister-german to Patrick, Lord Ruthven, and wife of Patrick, Master of Gray, had a charter on 5 February 1562-63 of the lands of Overmains of Foulis.⁴ They had issue:—

1. Patrick, sixth Lord.
2. Gilbert, of Mylnhill, Burgess of Dundee, 13 January 1589, who married Elizabeth Gib.⁵
3. James, Gentleman of the King’s Bedchamber, 1592,⁶ stole one of the King’s horses,⁷ and in 1593 was denounced rebel for abducting Katherine, daughter of John Carnegie of that Ilk, from the house of Robert Joussey, merchant in Edinburgh, and keeping her captive against her will.⁸ He afterwards claimed to have married her and took instruments to that effect, but she married Sir John Hamilton of Lettrick.⁹ He had a charter of the lands of Davidstoun, Cawston, etc., in Forfarshire 6 December 1592.¹⁰
4. William, of Bandirran, afterwards in Inchture, Sheriff-depute of Forfar, admitted Burgess of Dundee 13 January 1589-90, was charged before the Privy Council with breaking up the House of Bonnytoun 7 April 1601, and found caution.¹¹ On 14 June 1605 he had a charter to himself and Elizabeth Gray, his spouse, of the lands of Bandirran from Patrick, Lord Gray, and Patrick, Master of Gray.¹² As assignee of his deceased brother James, he, as William Gray of Pitscandlie, assigned a lease of the teinds of the lands of Easter and Wester Newtouns to his brother Patrick, Lord Gray, on 11 February 1611.¹³ He married Elizabeth Gray, Lady Inchture, relict of Patrick Kinnaird of Inchture.