Honorable Artillery Company of Boston," and included much of what is now the present city of Nashua. Following is an abstract of the deed: "James Harwood, of Dunstable, N. H., Yeoman. Consideration, £50, lawful money. To Benjamin Davis and John Harwood, of Amherst, N. H. Land in Dunstable. Being part of the Artillery farms, contains about 48 acres. Mary Harwood surrenders her right and dower, May 16, in the Fourteenth year of his Majestie's reign, A. D., 1774. In presence of Amos Fiske and Joshua Atherton. Acknowledged before J. Atherton, J. P. Recorded Sept. 29, 1774." Hillsborough County Registry of Deeds, Nashua, Vol. 3, page 260. In the records of Dunstable we find this reference to Mrs. Harwood: "March 5, 1781, Voted that Mary Harwood, be allowed 7. 8. for what the town was benefitted by her late husband in the war," Nov. 9, 1785, Mrs. Mary Harwood married Isaac Foote of Wearetown, N. H. He was a widower, a little older than herself, and like her first husband had seen much service in both the French and Indian and the Revolutionary wars. She lived to the great age of 99 years. A brother of Mrs Harwood, Paul Clogston, of Dunstable, served at the beginning of the Revolution in the same company and regiment with James Harwood. He was wounded at Bunker Hill, and died from his wounds about a month later, July 15, 1775. Another brother, John Clogston, Jr., born 1741, married at Londonderry, N. H., a young widow, Mrs. Anna Glasford, and was one of the first settlers in Goffstown, N. H., where they reared six children. He also served for a time in Capt. William Walker's company in the Revolution. The Esther Clogston who witnessed the deed of freedom given by Mr. and Mrs. John Clogston to their slaves, was very probably their daughter and sister to Mrs. Harwood. The Clogstons have been a very respectable family in New England, and some of the family
